Student Guide counseling cell

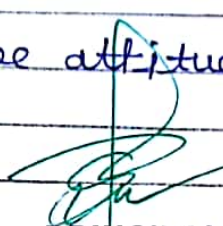

Introduction:

It is essential to provide students with the right guidance and appropriate counseling when they are making career choices at the right time. Career counselors base their assistance on students' interests and career preferences. In this context, a counseling cell has been established within the university to help students in their academic and personal development, ultimately leading them to reach their full potential.

Objectives:

The primary objectives of this cell, established within the university, are as follows:

1. To provide students with guidance on various study options available during the selection process.
2. To identify and nurture student's abilities and interests.
3. To assist students in resolving their individual, educational, and psychological issues during their academic journey.
4. Developing a positive attitude and behavior to face challenges.
